Miss Mabel Ross of Friendship, Wis., a dressmaker, will spend the spring with Mrs. M. Palmatier of the west side. Miss Ross went to Coloma, Wis., to attend the wedding of an intimate lady friend, which takes place this afternoon.

Dr. George Houston left yesterday for Oklahoma, where he is going to look for a location in the dental business. He had not made up his mind where he would locate, but will look over the country until he finds something that suits him.

Dr. M. Dean of Marshfield, the inventor of the Dunn pocket ball, was in the city for a short time on Wednesday last. He was on his way home from a trip to the west where he had been giving some information concerning the use of his new ball.

Richard Wiperman left on Tuesday for the oil country, expecting to be gone about two weeks. He will visit Perry, Oklahoma City and Rush Springs before his return. Senator Wiperman is at Rush Springs where he is engaged in the real estate business.

There has been an upward tendency in the price of potatoes during the past couple of weeks, so that at the present time they are bringing a quite respectable price. The rise is probably because the most of the farmers have disposed of their stock and are unable to take advantage of the rise in price.

John McPherson was released from jail on Thursday, and the authorities here hope that they have seen the last of him. The sheriff did not prefer any charges against him on account of his breaking jail, probably because he has been sick most of the time since he returned to jail, and was not well at the time of his release.

Several freight cars ran off the track in the Northwestern yards on Thursday, and the mishap caused a special passenger train that was passing thru to lay over here for a few hours. The special train had on the various sections of the road, who were being taken over the line on a sight-seeing tour by the officials.

Wm. Brenaman left on Saturday afternoon for Wausau, he having received an appointment as guard at the prison at that place. He had orders to report for duty on the first of April.

Mr. Brenaman has been janitor at the Lincoln school for some time past, and got his appointment by taking his civil service examination.

We note that Marshall Prothro of Wild Rose, is a candidate for sheriff of Wausau Co. With what especial pleasance and gratitude for his past splendid record can the voters of that county give him a rousing majority.

The capture of the Wild Rose robbers, proves his ability to fulfill the duties of the office with great credit.—Al-

We are in receipt of No. 1, volume paper that is being published by Evangeline Booth, the commander of the salvation army. It is a neat little paper of four pages, and has been es-lating in prisons and reformatories, and thru its medium the army hopes to carry on and extend the work that has been going on heretofore among the lower classes of mankind.

"Uncle" John Little, the veteran make his home with another daughter.

He hopes the western climate will benefit his health. "Uncle" John's many friends along the Valley division will join him in this hope.

George P. Krieger returned on Monday from Chicago, where he had been engaged in company with his partner, George Nelson, in closing out some orders for the Nelson boring tool, and after this was done the machinery belonging to the company was placed upon a car and started for this city.
The machinery will be installed in Mr. Krieger's shop in this city where the manufacture of the tools will be carried on.

J. A. Langer and George Rivers of

Tribune office on Monday. Mr. Langer recently received the sad intelligence of the death of his brother Vincente Langer, who was killed at Lake Mills while engaged in cutting timber, a falling tree striking him and crushing him to death. The deceased had been married only three months and was well known in Rudolph, where he had made his home a part of the time.

It must be gratifying to the Democrats, who followed the fortunes of William J. Bryan, to read in the leading newspapers of the nation that the overhauling of rottenness in government and private affairs are exactly what the great Commonwealth predicted, and that if he lives nothing can prevent his nomination and his election.
That the principles advocated by Mr.
Bryan are no longer referred to as socialistic but are accepted by a republican President in order to save his party from being steadily dragged to the edge of a frightful precipice.—

The Gibson pictures offered by the Milwaukee Sunday Free Press for the past two Sundays created the largest demand for the Free Press in the history of that publication. There are eight more subjects to appear and the way the people have taken to the first two subjects shows that an artistic supplement is in demand by masses as well as the classes. We again would advise our friends to look up this offer as the pictures are printed on art paper ready for framing and fine enough to adorn the walls of any home. You can obtain the Sunday Free Press with the picture at five cents a copy, or fifty cents for the ten weeks.

The last of the ice in the river opposite the city disappeared on Monday, and to have looked at that part of the stream between the dam and the island one might have supposed that the river was entirely free from ice. Although the dam, however, it was quite solid, and in order to give it a start in that direction the Consolidated people fired a number of charges of dynamite under the ice, which caused a considerable amount to break loose and come over the dam. The building of the dam at this point has entirely changed the formation of the ice at this point, and there were only a few days during the winter when the ice reached across the river below the bridge, and the place where there was always before a skating pond, remained open water much of the time.

Recent reports from all the duck hunting territory near St. Louis, Mo., convey the information that a phenomenal flight of wild ducks from the south is on. From the Illinois river country to Marquette's bay, on the Mississippi, over the prairies to the north of St. Louis, to Grand Tower south and the adjacent country, all kinds of ducks are mowing. Along the Missouri river, at Creve Coeur lake Bonfils, St. James lake, in fact everywhere, the quack of the duck fills the air. From all reports the present is the greatest flight of wild fowl in years.

Rib Hill, in Marathon county, near Wausau, is now stated to be the highest point of land in Wisconsin. It is nearly 800 feet above the water surface of the Wisconsin and Rib rivers, drowning at its base, and 500 feet above the flat topped uplands of its surrounding region. Holy Hill, near Hartford, for many years was believed entitled to this distinction. Later, one of the blue mounds near Madison was believed to be the highest point in the state. Now it is discovered that neither of these statements are correct and that Rib Hill is entitled to the honor.

Wants to Change Spelling.
Andrew Carnegie, the man who,
by the liberal donation of his dollars, has enabled many a town to have a library, the likes of which the citizens were so stingy to build, now proposes to revolutionize the spelling in the English language. He is going to make it more simple, and as usual with these rich men, he is willing to spend some money in order to bring the reform about.

This will be welcome news to a whole lot of people who "never could learn to spell." When they go wrong on a word now they can lay it all to Carnegie.

Some eminent professors have been interviewed on the subject and they say it is all rot. That you can't change the spelling of a language.
One fellow went so far as to say that if you changed the spelling it would not be the English language any more.
Well, what if it wasn't. They apparently seem to imagine that Mr.
Carnegie is going to bring about the change all at once. That he intends to take an unabridged dictionary and go thru it and mark every word that has a silent or a superfluous letter in it, and then try to have the public adopt this new method some Monday morning when they come down to work, the same as we adopt a new election law, a new religion, or a clean pair of socks.

But they are mistaken. This is not Mr. Carnegie's intention at all.
He intends to start gradually and sort of give it to us in homoeopathic doses, and like all homoeopathic remedies, if it does not do us any good it certainly will not hurt us any. Carnegie and himself and a few other noted men have already adopted the reform on the first dozen words, they being; altho, thro, demagogy, prolog, tho, thoro, therefore, thero, program, decalog, catalog and prolog. In fact we have used them so long that we have almost forgotten that they were ever spelled any other way, and are anxious for new words to conquer, or new words to mutilate, just as you have a mind to put it. We do not believe in making these changes too suddenly, for the reason that it would be hard on us fellows who have learned the old way to make the change, but by going at it gradually it can be accomplished without inconvenience to anybody.

The spelling of the English language has been very materially changed within the past few hundred years without any concerted action on the matter, and if there are any people who mourn today for a return of the good old ways, they are in such an overwhelming minority that they are not cutting much figure with the general public.

After Mr. Carnegie gets down to business in proper style, scholars will not have to learn spelling any more in school. It might be said, however, that if one is to judge by their writing, there are a number who are not learning much along this line at the present time.

green paper about four inches wide and fourteen inches long. Cut this paper very regularly through the fold as shown in Fig. 1, making a sort of paper comb.

the cut paper forms a large mass.

When it is as tight as it will go, fasten of a flat mustard cork in which a hole has been cut, or you can use a large spool.

Paint the tube brown for the trunk of the tree, and if you like, you can Revolvers in School.

Chicago boys brought before a judge for carrying concealed weapons in school disclosed the fact that it is a common practice among boys from 14 to 16 of a west side school to go armed with revolvers and knives.

Any one at all interested in the startling growth of crime in Chicago will find a faithful subject for study in the fact that the school boys go prepared to kill one another.

It is as natural for a boy to fight as for a duck to swim. But if he has courage, pride and honor to maintain, he will use his fists. No more harm was ever done among boys by the use of natural weapons. Many a boy has been disgraced by being beaten out of him. Many a contemptible "fraud" has had seeds of manhood trampled into him. The boy who is never too cowardly to rely upon the weapons which nature gives him, and to resort to them when necessary, has good stuff in him.

It is only the cowardly and the bully that arm themselves in a civilized community, and the boy who learns the evil power a revolver has is apt to degenerate from a bully to a thief. The city whose school boys carry deadly weapons may expect soon to be overrun by desperadoes.

The boys themselves can hardly be held wholly responsible for the practice. No doubt they imitate their elders. The boys cannot fully understand the wrong and realize its results. The community is at fault in failing to instill greater respect for law and order into old and young, by enforcing and maintaining law, and thus making it respectable. Milwaukee Journal.

The forced resignation of President Gray of the Stevens Point normal school, has caused a whole raft of criticism both by the newspapers and by private citizens thru the press, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that it was a case of politics. The reports tried to explain the situation in the matter by claiming that the attendance at school had not held up with that of similar schools throughout the state, but statistics on the subject show that this is not a fact. It is certainly a very bad thing if our largest state educational institutions are at the mercy of a few men who will allow politics to step in and oust a man from a position like this just because his political beliefs may not agree with theirs. There may be plenty of men, and there undoubtedly are, who are capable of filling the position as Mr. Gray, but the same might be said of any position in the country, and still it would not be an excuse for putting in the other man. If there is anybody who approves the course of the regents in the matter here, we had not said enough to come out and say so as yet.

Charles A. Edwards writing from Washington says:

What threatened to be an invasion on the sacred rights of the American people was averted last week, when the Senate rejected Arizona and New Mexico from the Satehood Bill. It looked very much as though these people were going to be forced into a shotgun wedding, as every effort of the administration was being put forth to bring them in as one state, whether they liked it or not, and this would have been brought about had it not been for the Hon. Mark Smith, delegate from Arizona. He can congratulate himself on having won out one of the hardest fights, against the greater odds, that has taken place here in many years. Bully for Mark, Arizona should be proud of him.

Just after the smoke of the Statehood fight had cleared away a diminutive messenger boy was rushing wildly around, looking for Mark, whom he finally found in the midst of a group of statesmen, still talking about the fray. He carried a telegram from Mark's constituents in Arizona, and this is what it said: "Arvo you drunk yet? If not you ought to be. We all are." And Mark wasn't.

There is quite a movement on foot to have the tax removed from alcohol, which is to be used in the arts and sciences and also for fuel or power purposes. As it is at the present time the tax on alcohol covers all grades, even those of the wood variety, and the consequence is that the manufacture of the same is greatly restricted, and other countries enjoy a monopoly of the manufacture of articles and solutions which use a large quantity of alcohol extract. The matter is one which the average man may not have thought much about, but investigation shows that there is a great deal of master going to waste each year which might be made into alcohol if it were not for the excessive tax. It is proposed to denaturalize the alcohol so that it cannot be used as a beverage, in which case the government would not be defrauded out of any of the revenues yet would be entitled to it. It would seem as if the law makers would be ready and willing to do away with this tax.

Making Medicine History

Several years ago, a thousand of the leading druggists throughout the United States organized themselves together in a co-operative company to produce remedies which they could back up with their own names and their own reputations.

The first object of this co-operative company was to produce a line of remedies that every druggist would know thoroughly. There were to be no secret formulas; the ingredients of every remedy were to be known to every druggist.

Each of these thousand druggists contributed to the organization all that his knowledge and experience had brought to him in the way of advice as to different remedies. The formulas of something like 2,000 or more remedies were sent to the company. A committee of experts was appointed and this committee went over the various formulas conscientiously and earnestly for a long period of time and selected from the entire list about 200 standard remedies, the manufacture of which the company then undertook.

The company in the meantime had erected a perfect laboratory—a large, well-appointed, with every appliance known to modern skill. The combined capital of a thousand druggists made it possible for the company to purchase in quantities the most valuable drugs and herbs, etc., that form the ingredients of the various remedies.

This meant not only the highest quality in manufacture, but the very greatest economy—the cutting out of every wasteful item and every unnecessary expense.

The remedies when manufactured were shipped directly from the laboratory to the retail druggists. This insured their freshness and made it impossible for their quality to deteriorate. Not only that, but it also did away with the jobbers' profit. Here again the co-operative system added not only quality but brought about economy.

Most of our patrons are familiar with these facts. Most of them are already acquainted with the formulas of Rexall Remedies which are manufactured by the United Drug Co., with laboratory and principal offices in Boston, Mass.

These are the remedies and this is the co-operative company that we believe has done more to bring about a change in patent medicine conditions than any other element in existence.

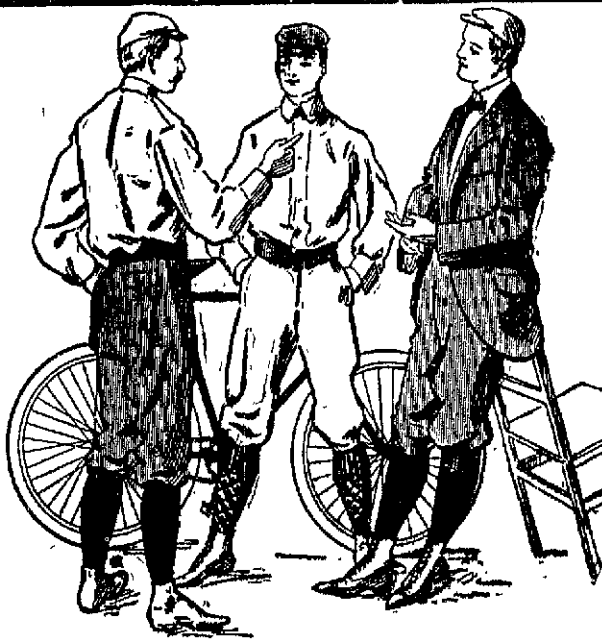

Each of the Rexall druggists knows absolutely what each Rexall remedy contains. He has the formula of each remedy on file in his safe.

He will gladly give it to anyone who is interested. There is nothing secret about any of the Rexall formulas. On the contrary, we are thoroughly proud of them. We want you to know about them.

For Cystitis, Rexall Mucin-Tone, 50 cents For Dyspepsia, Rexall Eucypres Tablets, 25 cents For Nervousness, Rexall American Elixir, 75 cents For Falling Hair, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, 50 cents

Simplex Safety Valve

You do not require the same safety valve that is used on the pressure boiler, but one that is simple, cheap, and not likely to get out of order. The Simplex Safety Valve is so simple that it can be attached in ten minutes' time. It is made of brass and will not rust, and will last as long as the boiler itself, and it is the elevation stops the Simplex Safety Valve automatically opens and all danger of explosion and loss of life is avoided.

The fact that you never have had trouble of the kind described does not preclude the possibility of having it. You can never have too much insurance. Why? Because it is a matter of common knowledge that houses do burn down. The same applies to the boiler. As to the burning of a house, and if you do not know personally of the frequency of broken water backs, ask your plumber.

Insure against the possibility of an explosion in your home by equipping your hot water system with some kind of safety appliance. The Simplex Safety Valve will give you this insurance.

Galvanic Soap saves the clothes by not making it necessary to wear them out on the wash board. The soap being absolutely pure, does not leave any waste matter in the fabric to rot it. It cleans out easily and completely.

Miss Mabel Ross of Friendship, Wis., a dressmaker, will spend the spring with Mrs. M. Palmer of the west side. Miss Ross went to Columbia, Wis., to attend the wedding of an intimate lady friend, which takes place this afternoon.

Dr. George Houston left yesterday for Oklahoma, where he is going to look for a location in the dental business. He had not made up his mind where he would locate, but will look over the country until he finds something that suits him.

Dr. M. Dunn of Marshfield, the inventor of the Dunn pocket ball, was in the city for a short time on Wednesday last. He was on his way home from a trip thru the state where he had been giving some information concerning the use of his new ball.

Richard Wiperman left on Tuesday for the old country, expecting to be gone about two weeks. He will visit Perry, Oklahoma City and Wash Springs before his return. Senator Wiperman is at Wash Springs where he is engaged in the real estate business.

There has been an upward tendency in the price of potatoes during the past couple of weeks, so that at the present time they are bringing quite a respectable price. The rise is probably because the most of the farmers have disposed of their stock and are unable to take advantage of the rise in price.

John McPherson was released from jail on Thursday, and the authorities here hope that they have seen the last of him. The sheriff did not prefer any charges against him on account of his breaking jail, probably because he has been sick most of the time since he returned to jail, and was not well at the time of his release.

Several freight cars ran off the track in the Northwestern yards on Thursday and the mixup caused a special passenger train that was passing thru to lay over here for a few hours. The special train had on the various section-foremen of the road, who were being taken over the line on a sight-seeing tour by the officials.

The MacKinnon Wagon Company report that they have more orders this spring for their wagons than they can attend to, as wherever the wagons have been used at all duplicate orders have come in, and in some instances it has been for a large number, and in most cases they were able to supply only a part of the order. A wagon for heavy work has just been finished for J. Cauning, the dryman, which will be used by him for handling the heaviest kind of stuff that comes his way, his other wagons having proved a trifle light for the work.

Recent reports from all the duck hunting territory near St. Louis, Mo., convey the information that a phenomenal flight of wild ducks from the south is on. From the Illinois river country to Murphy's bay, on the Mississippi, over the prairies to the north of St. Louis, to Grand Tower south and the adjacent country, all kinds of ducks are amusing. Along the Missouri river, at Creve Coeur lake, Bonville, St. James lake, in fact everywhere, the quack of the duck fills the air. From all reports the present is the greatest flight of wild fowl in years.

Rib Hill, in Marathon county, near Wausau, is now stated to be the highest point of land in Wisconsin. It is nearly 800 feet above the water surface of the Wisconsin and Rib rivers, flowing at the base, and 500 feet above the flat-topped uplands of the surrounding region.

Holy Hill, near Hartwood, for many years was believed entitled to this distinction. Later, one of the blue mounds near Madison was believed to be the highest point in the state. Now it is discovered that neither of these statements are correct and that Rib Hill is entitled to the honor.

Wants to Change Spell ing.

Andrew Carnegie, the man who, by the liberal donation of his dollars, has enabled many a town to have a library, the likes of which the citizens were too stupid to build, now proposes to revolutionize the spelling in the English language. He is going to make it more difficult, and as usual with those rich men, he is willing to spend some money in order to bring the reform about.

This will be welcome news to a whole lot of people who "never could learn to spell." When they go wrong on a word now they can lay it all to Carnegie.

Some eminent professors have been interviewed on the subject and they say it is all rot. That you can't change the spelling of a language. One fellow went so far as to say that if you changed the spelling it would not be the English language any more. Well, what if it wasn't? They apparently seem to imagine that the change all at once. That he intends to take an unabridged dictionary and go thru it and mark every word that has a silent or a superfluous letter in it, and then try to have the public adopt this new method some Monday morning when they come down to work, the same as we adopt a new religion, a new religion, or a clean pair of socks.

But they are mistaken. This is not Mr. Carnegie's intention at all. He intends to start gradually and sort of give it to us in homoeopathic doses, and like all homoeopathic remedies, if it does not do us any good it certainly will not hurt us any. Carnegie and himself and a few other noted men have already adopted the reform on the first dozen words, they being; altho, thru, denago, prolog, tho, thoro, thorofer, thornot, pregram, denalog, catalog and pedagog. In fact we have used them so long that we have almost forgotten that they are anything but new words, and are anxious for new words to conquer, or new words to mutilate, just as we have a mind to put it. We do not believe in making these changes too suddenly, for the reason that it would be hard for us fellows who have learned the old way to make the change, but by going at it gradually it can be accomplished without inconvenience to anybody.

The spelling of the English language has been very materially changed within the past few hundred years without any concerted action on the matter, and if there are any people who mourn today for a return of the good old ways, they are in such an overwhelming minority that they are not counting much figure with the general public.

After Mr. Carnegie gets down to business in proper style, scholars will not have to learn spelling any more in school. It might be said, however, that if one is to judge by their writings, there are a number who are not learning much along this line at the present time.

PAPER TREES.

Work for Little Girls Who Make Doll Houses out of Boxes.

Many girls enjoy making paper doll houses out of boxes, and so we will tell you how to make cunning trees, to have your house in a nice shady grove. Fold in two, lengthwise, a piece of green paper about four inches wide and fourteen inches long. Cut this paper very regularly through the fold as shown in Fig. 1, making a sort of paper comb.

Then roll the band between the thumb and finger, as in Fig. 2, until the cut paper forms a large mass. When it is as tight as it will go, fasten together the two ends with a little paste and unite the paper into one strip by running the finger between each strip or paper ring. Stick the tube in the end of a flat mustard cork in which a hole has been cut, or you can use a large spool.

Paint the tube brown for the trunk of the tree, and, if you like, you can color the cork to make it look like one of the great standards in which evergreen trees are now often set.

By making the paper larger or smaller you can have big trees or tiny saplings.—Exchange.

Our Tummy First Engines.

If our modern railway engines had the same power to laugh that they have to scow at, they might, as you children say, "nearly die" laughing over the way our first railway engines looked. Little, queerly shaped, puny things they were. The "Steamer-Lion" didn't weigh one twenty-fifth part of the weight of an engine of today, and it looked as if people might well hesitate about riding their lives behind it. It was first used at Honesdale, in Pennsylvania, and it ran on wooden rails with a thin layer of iron on them. People gathered from near and from far that 8th of August, in the year 1829, when the little British lion of iron and steel was to make its first run. The "vibes" shook their heads and prophesied all sorts of probable disasters, and people said that "nothing on earth" could tempt them to ride across the bridge spanning the Lackawanna river on "that thing." But the little lion went safely over the bridge and over the eight or nine miles of track, which was the entire length of this line of railroad.—St. Nicholas

How to Catch a Rabbit.

A Lewiston man relates: "When I was a small boy somebody told me that if I saw a rabbit and shouted loud, running straight at him meanwhile, he would stand still and let me catch him. Not long afterward, while driving with my father one day, I spied a rabbit in the road ahead. Like a flash I was out of the wagon and, yelling at the top of my lungs, made for him. The creature actually stood stock still. I picked him up, took him home, built a hutch for him and had him for a playmate for a year or more."—Lewiston Journal.

Condemned.

Why does an aching tooth impose silence on the sufferer? Because it makes him hold his jaw.

Which letter in the alphabet is most useful to a deaf woman? The letter H, because it makes "heer" "hear."

Why is a lady in full dress like a locomotive? Because she carries a train behind her.

When are thieves like locomotives? When spotted.

Your P's and Q's.

All little girls and little boys should mind their P's and Q's. Or else so many, many things of value they will lose.

For, while P stands for prompt and polite.

And Q stands for quietness and play.

And patience and politeness and properly and praise.

It also stands for play and prying and pleasure and poetry; you will see it heads proverbially.

And pert and painful too
